1 The deduction allowed for disabled dependents is treated as an additional personal exemption on the traditional individual income tax return. Because this deduction is not allowed under the single rate individual income tax, the deduction is repealed in 2008 General Session H.B. 359, Tax Changes.

2 The deduction for certain military pay allowed under the traditional individual income tax and for estates and trusts expired at the end of taxable year 2005. 2008 General Session H.B. 359, Tax Changes, repeals this obsolete language.

3 The Utah Educational Savings Plan tax credit, the taxpayer tax credit, the retirement tax credit, the Medical Savings Account tax credit, the estate and trust tax credit, the capital gain transactions tax credit, the health benefit plan tax credit, and the qualifying solar projects tax credit are subject to apportionment for part-year residents or nonresidents.

4 This tax credit only applies to resident estates or trusts.

5 Because the total amount of tax credit claimed or carried forward was less than $10,000 per year for three consecutive taxable years, Utah Code Ann. § 59-10-1002.1 (2008) provides that the State Tax Commission shall remove this tax credit from individual income tax returns and fiduciary income tax returns. The tax credit may no longer be claimed for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2007.

6 This tax credit takes effect beginning with taxable year 2008.

7 This tax credit takes effect beginning with taxable year 2009.

8 The bill recodifies the contributions as Title 59, Chapter 10, Part 13, Individual Income Tax Contribution Act.

9 Because this contribution generated less than $30,000 per year for three consecutive taxable years, Utah Code Ann. § 59-10-1304 (2008) provides that the State Tax Commission shall remove the designation for the contribution from individual income tax returns beginning two taxable years after the three-year period for which the contribution generates less than $30,000 per year. A taxpayer may no longer make a contribution to the Utah College of Applied Technology for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2007. A taxpayer may no longer make a contribution to the Wolf Depredation and Management Restricted Account for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2008.

10 The authority to make this contribution expired at the end of taxable year 2006. 2008 General Session H.B. 359, Tax Changes, repeals the contribution.

11 This tax credit was enacted in the 2007 General Session. Unlike the other tax credits, this tax credit did not specify whether an estate or trust is eligible to claim the tax credit. However, the statute provided that the tax credit may be claimed by a "business entity," which is defined as any entity under which business is conducted or transacted. Under this definition, an estate or trust could arguably claim the tax credit. The Trust and Estate Working Group recommends that the tax credit should be amended to clarify that an estate or trust is eligible to claim it. 2008 General Session H.B. 359, Tax Changes, makes this clarification.
