

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

RS25646

This proposal would allow the Division of Building Safety to self-certify inspectors without having to pay an outside agency to do so. Inspectors are already required to be licensed as a journeyman or master electrician, and as such maintain continuing education (CEUs) to keep their journeyman or master electrician licenses. The organizations currently providing the inspector certification do not require anything of the inspector in addition to that, but do require the payment of a fee.

FISCAL NOTE

There is no fiscal impact to the state General Fund, and the impact to the electrical dedicated fund is expected to be positive, as it will save DBS money in not having to pay an outside provider.
