

REVISED

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

RS33120 / S1251

The current provisions of Idaho Code provide that the Idaho Attorney General has common law powers as the attorney for the State. This legislation makes it clear statutorily that the Attorney General's office has the ability to pursue a declaratory action or seek injunctive relief through the courts to civilly enforce the provisions of Idaho Code.

FISCAL NOTE

It is difficult to determine what impact, if any, this will have on the State budget because the decision whether to pursue court action rests in the discretion of the Attorney General and depends on the facts and circumstances of any given situation.
